Description: La danse nous connecte aux inconnus par la magie tacite du silence, pendant que la musique guide nos pas. Doucement, main dans la main, après trois sets et une valse, ces inconnus deviennent l'écho de notre métronome. Mon cœur bat une mesure différente depuis les Souris Set de Barnone.

Dance can connect strangers through the unspoken magic of silence, while the music leads our steps. Slowly, after three sets and a waltz, these strangers, hand in hand, become the echo of our metronome. My heart follows a different beat since the Souris Set at Barnone.

Artwork Title: Singing Whales

Original Medium: Watercolour, Ink, Paper, Seaweed, Wood Glue, Fixative and Verathane on Wooden Canvas

Date: 2024

Dimensions: 24 x 36 in

Community: New Glasgow, PE

Location: Corner of Queen St and Grafton St

Description: This artwork depicts two Humpback Whales singing to each other. Every year the humpback's song slowly changes into a new version, which is then shared around the whole world by the Humpback species. This piece also visualizes the merging of two voices and the interesting dynamic that happens between the intersection of sounds. This work ties into the island music scene because the ocean has always been a great source of inspiration for island artists. Wildlife sounds and behaviours have also influenced songwriters for centuries.

Description: This drawing celebrates the shared melodies of sea-birds and sea-people. Together, local musicians Tiffany Liu (Pipa), Tom Gammons (Guitar), Tuli Porcher (Fiddle), and Siddhu (Flute) create and share culture alongside the ocean. Natural sounds and folk music are central to the heartbeat of Epekwitk. We are alive in our connection to the land and to each other.

Artwork Title: Fancy Shawl Dancer
Original Medium: Photography
Date: 2023
Dimensions: Variable
Community: Charlottetown, PE

Location: Grafton St near Scotiabank (127 Grafton St)

Description: Fancy Shawl Dance has its roots in a ceremonial dance called the Butterfly Dance. The shawl, as a result, is meant to symbolize the wings of a butterfly, and the fancy steps and twirls represent its style of flight. The Fancy Shawl is one of the types of Regalia First Nations wear. Each one is unique, hand made using colorful materials, ribbons, appliques. Women were traditionally required to wear shawls as a sign of proper etiquette when in a dancing arena. The characteristic feature of the women's Fancy Shawl Dance — the elaborate shawl — is uniquely decorated by the dancer with distinct symbols, beadwork and fringes. The rest of the Regalia, consist of a decorative knee-length cloth dress, beaded moccasins and matching leggings, accompanied by various pieces of jewelry.

Artwork Title: Spoon Man
Original Medium: Acrylic on canvas
Date: 2023
Dimensions: 18 x 24 in
Community: North Rustico, PE

Location: Corner of Queen St and Richmond St

Description: How does one capture the spirited, toe-tapping Acadian music on canvas. I decided to take on this challenge with lively strong brush strokes and vivid colours. As your eye moves around the canvas you can almost feel the beat of the music and the clacking of the spoons.

This painting of Brendon Eric Peters is as much about the feeling of PEI as the red soil itself. Brendon has been playing the spoons and showing up on boardwalks, Ceilidh's and wherever people gather, tapping a beat and bringing smiles to everyone's faces.
